TWENTY TONS OF SECURITY delivered to the Belle Glade branch of the Bank of Pahokee Monday in the form of a 40,000 pound vault door. It took workmen about four hours to install the door in perfect balance, allowing it to be swung open by only one man. The door was con-structed in 1928 and is the largest hung in Florida during the past 20 years. Branch manager Bubba Mock said the work on the door was done by Security Equipment

Deerfield Beach and a crane from Parrish Brothers was used to unload it.
The door had been used in the First National Bank of Newcastle, Pa. and was National Bank of Newcastle, Pa. and was purchased when that bank renovated. It has a time lock device. Mock said work is expected to be completed on the South Main offices of the branch by mid-November or early. December. The work is being done by Blanton and Unwin, Inc.

Garbage system hearing is tonight

BELLE GIADE — Whether or not a controversial mobile toter garbage collection system will be adopted by the city commission will probably be decided at a public hearing at 8 p.m. tonight at city hall, although the official decision won't be made until later:

The system, which was tested for two months in a pilot project costing the city just under $1,000, has probably become the most controversial municipal issue in recent years and the estimated savings of $28,000 will almost certainly not be an issue in deciding whether the system is adopted city-wide.

City Manager Robert R. Sanders distributed to city commissioners during a workshop session Monday night the results of a survey of opinions of people who had been part of the pilot project, as well as several petitions on the subject.

Sanders said there were approximately 550 survey cards mailed or distributed to residents participating in the pilot project and as of that day, 303 had been returned, approximately 55 per cent of the number of households surveyed.

Of that number, 252, or 83 per cent, responded in favor of the system, 42, or 14 per cent opposed it, and nine, or 3 per cent, were undecided.

Joseph Fay, administrative aide to the city manage, said a check of

In a letter to Sanders, Sentitation Superintendent Roy Poling recommended the adoption of the system citing several reasons.

"First of all," he said, "our most common complaint that a person's garbage was missed was completely eliminated."

He went on to say's another complaint with the exitting system, that only part of the garbage was picked up., has decreased because the cart is large enough to hold both garbage and trash. In the past, many people would have their garbage in a plastic bag inside the garbage can, with a few lawn clippings under the bag which didn't get dumped.

He said another complaint he beside was used to be said were eliminated by the Mobile Toter system included garbage cans without cans. He said he also noticed a decrease in the number of small piles of trash along the curb.

Final zoning hearing is Tuesday

Crowd speaks to subdivision ordinances

BELLE GLADE-More than 100 city residents turned out last Thursday night to take part in a discussion of proposed subdivision and development ordinances, although some were obviously un-

Just as obviously, City Planner John Gubisch III, Building Inspector Kenneth Retterer and Assistant City Manager Joe Fay were unprepared for the large turnout, a situation which wasn't Gubisch said before the meeting he only expected -a handful of people, all of them developers, to take part in the hearing and he had only a few copies of the sgenda and the ordinances on hand. Gubisch threw the floor open for, questions on the proposed ordinances but one member of the audience asked how anyone could ask questions when they didn't know what the revisions were.

By this time an attempt was being made to print more copies of the ordinanc-- but the copying machine broke down.

Dr. Mendal Luce, a member of the ten-man committee which drafted the proposed revisions and the-all-new development code over more than a year's time, said the primary reason for the ordinances was that the city now has virtually no guidelines to go by for developers.

Luce said he believes the ordinances will be an improvement and shouldn't create any real new problems.

Retterer said an example of that

Retterer said an example of that is that when a developer builds a street, the only requirement in the city code at the present is that the street shall be built according to city specifications," and the city closes the area specifications."

Votamatic

It was a good move on the part of the Belle Glade City Comission to get a recount of the city election results of Sept. 12, and a good move on the part of candidate Aubrey Farmer in calling for the recount.

There were too many votes lost in the two races and even There were too many votes lost in the two races and even if there had been no challenge by Farmer, the commission should have gone ahead with a recount on the computer on the coast to find out why they were lost.

As it turned out, the recount still did little toward and the weak of the coast to the coa down the neid a nttle.

The lost votes came as a combination of factors, including voters who didn't understand how the balloting works, voters who understood perfectly well how the system works but who were only interested in one of the two races and possibly voters who purposely voided their ballots by voting every position available.

There were some ballots on which no holes were there were some pallots on which no holes were punched, there were some on which withdrawn candidate Nate Ed-wards received votes and there were still others who voted wards received votes and there were still others who voted for every candidate running for office.

The point is that until the recount was made Friday no one really knew why or how the votes were lost and it was essential the why and how be discovered.

There were enough problems without having that unknown hanging over the city's collective head.

This was the second year City Clerk June Boglioli has run the city election using the Votamatic system and it's the second year the tabulating machines have given trouble.

second year the tabulating machines have given trouble.

There was already some talk as early as last Wednesday morning that the commission may investigate the possibility of reverting back to the lever-type voting machines.

That may seem a step backward but one thing's for sure; counting the Votamatic ballots couldn't have been much faster than counting the old paper ballots, if as fast.

The lever machines were obviously better for small city elections and may have been better for county-wide elections. Supervisor of Elections Jackie Winchester may or may not be able to improve her performance countywide during the runoff election Oct. 3 and the general election on Nov. 7 but there isn't much hope of an improvement locally as long as the small tabulators are being used.

It's time and past time for the city and county both to take a serious look at the advisability of continuing use of a system which is so slow and awkward.

Those hearings

That was a question plaguing Belle Glade City Planner. John Gubisch a month ago when he started laying the groundwork for a series of three public hearings to selicit input from residents concerning proposed subdivision, development and zoning codes.

HOW TO TURN THE TOP 1/3 OF YOUR SUGAR CANE INTO VALUABLE HARVEST CANE.

Sugar cane growers are always looking for ways to boost productivity. Have you ever looked at the top onethird of the cane?

Now there's a way to turn those immature upper nodes into valuable harvest cane. With an application of Polaris* Plant Growth Regulator by Monsanto, the chemical that stimulates sugar cane ripening.

Extensive commercial use has proven that it's now possible to get more recoverable sucrose from the top third of cane, which is the part that is not optimally ripened as a result of poor ripening conditions, such as warm, wet weather.

In fact, under poor ripening conditions, Polaris can increase sucrose levels overall, giving you more recoverable sucrose from every ton of cane.

The youthful superintendent made his points by telling the Rotary he was a firm believer in the Functional Literacy examination, did not believe in social promotion, and was working on a uniform curriculum which will also result in monetary savings for the schools.

uniform curriculum which will also result in monetary savings for the schools.

When Mills took over, each school pretty much set its own rourses but this has been changed to provide uniform standards from one school to the next. As an example, he pointed out that 16 textbooks were approved by the state for one course and in the country, all 18 were in use. This has been changed to one text and surplus books can be shifted around the country to prevent having to purchase new ones.

Mills also said he was a firm believer in vocational education and said the goals of schools should be to either prepare a student for higher education or ot teach him a saiable skill so he can go out, get a job, and become a contributing member of society.

Other areas Mills has worked on include personnel relations and mathmatics. Testing has shown, he said, that the present programs in reading have yielded results, but move the said that the said of the said o

Area offices have also been critized as not being able to make decisions, said Mills. He has informed the area offices of their responsibilities and told them they have the authority to do the job and that he would back them up. Perhaps the 'most important problem that must be worked upon, said Mills, is to get the community and parents more involved in the educational system. "We have the students six hours a day," he said, "and the parents have them the rest of the time. We can only reenforce what is taught can only reenforce what is taught in the home and we must have parental involvement in the stu-dents' activities."

Mills said new programs have developed to focus on reading and writing in grades kindergarten through three.

through three.

In a question and answersession, Mills acknowledged low scores in math and reading in local schools, but said it is questionable if a large body of students can be used to indicate whether a school is good or bad.

He said education today can't be compared to that of ten years ago but noted SAT scores have dropped and said this was partly because private schools have enrolled many bright students into their programs.

Mills says he would favor the concept of merit pay raises for outstanding teachers, but said it would be difficult to impliment. What may occur, he said, is to give raises to good teachers but to hold others at the same pay level.

There was some discussion about whether $50 per lot is sufficient to accomplish anything but Retterer agreed, with developer Ros Steele that in any case, the contribution shouldn't be required until the property has been occupied.

Steele argued that the developer would otherwise have to pay for the property, clear it, build streets, sewers and other utilities and pay the $50 per lot recreational contribution before he could realize the first dime from his investment.

Steele also questioned whether there is any justification for requiring a cross street every 660 feet. He suggested 1300 feet might be a more reasonable requirement.

Rev. Blair speaks at workshop

ELLE GLADE.—
"Communication is not just the spoken word," declared the Reverend Guldmar Blair as he advessed the third session of the Marriage Workshop last Sunday evening. "Everything we do, and the way we look when we do it, communicates our true facilities." ommunicates our true feelings ad intentions," he said.

and intentions," he said.

Meeting every Sunday and Wednesday through October 4, the Marriage Workshop convenes at 7:30 p.m. in Ringland Hall at 225
NW Avenue H. It is a communitywide, non-denominational service designed to "help troubled
marriages; strengthen sound
marriages; strengthen sound
marriages; and understand broken
marriages."

Pastor Blair is the minister of Community United Methodist Church. He is one of four local clergymen to discuss such topics as "Becoming a Family, Changing Relationships, Help for Troubled Marriages, and Children are People Too."

If communication is basically the art of "transmitting signals," then a husband and wife refusing to speak to one another are clearly communicating! Speaking to a cross-section of the community at this biblically-oriented seminar, Fastor Blair pointed out that the differing attitudes toward sex, money and work affect the process of communication. The birth and raising of children altera patterns of communication, he added. The busband may be silently crying out affection and attention from a fife whose first priority is her children. Married couples must be a supported by the children for the communication of the workshop unanimously agreed.

Think of the man born blind.

Jesus took a little dust from the earth, collected saliva, and put it in the dust. He made a little salve and, with his hands, put it on the man's eyes. The blind man was hesled. The touch of the hand of the Lord Jesus Christ is healing touch.

The hands of Jesus can heal your heart, heal your mind, heal your soul, and heal your body, if he wills. Has he come into your heart to heal your hurt? The hurt between you and your wife? The hurt between you and your brother? The hurt between you and your brother? The hurt between you and your brother? The hurt of bad health? Watever it is, let Jesus touch you. He loves you. He wants to help.

Third, the compassionate hands

n nro, the compassionate hands. He said, 'I have compassion on the multitude, because they continue with me now three days, and have nothing to eat.' Matthew 15:32. Jesus has compassion on the hungry people of the world. He has compassion on you in your need, in your hurt, in your place of suffering.

Fourth, the hands of bl children and he blessed tnem. Mark 10:15-16.

You may have gray hair, you may have a bald head, but in God's sight you are as a little child. Jesus wants to take you in his sarms and love you and bless you and change you and make you an even you hope and purpose and meaning in life-if y. will let him. But you have to open the door. You hav to become as a little child. You to become as a little child. You can't come to Jesus with your shoulder reared back and with a lot of pride. You have to surrender that pride and say, "Lord, I'm as sinner. You nied for me on the cross, and I'm coming to that cross. I want Your blessing. I want forgiveness for my sins."

Fifth, the suffering hands. He suffered when the soldiers drove nails through his hands. When they hung Jesus between heaven and earth, the terrible jolt tore his hands, After his resurrection, the disciples could see the nail scars in his hands and the place where he had been pierced. The wounds were such that Thomas could have yout his own finger into the holes. Jesus will wear those scars for ternity, and all that time, well be saying, "Thank you, Lord Thank you, Lord."

for the Days AHEAD

Even now trees are being felled, cords of wood cut, in preparation for cold winter days which are sure to come. Woodcutters are preparing for the days ahead, to bring comfort against the cold.

To prepare for our future "cold days," periods of sadness, times of bereavement, and times when we are tempest tossed, begin now to attend church regularly and let God, His Church, and His people help you to meet any situation in life.

"Blessed be God, even the Father of our Lord Jesus Christ, the father of mercies, and the God of all comfort; who comforteth as in all our tribulation, that we may be able to comfort them which are in any trouble, by the comfort wherewith we ourselves are comforted of God." 2 Cor. 1:3. 3.

DOT receives bids for US 27 resurfacing

The Florida Department of Transportation (DOT) received bids for resurfacing the north-bound lane and widening the southbound lane of U.S. 27 from Lake Harbor to a point north of SR-80 in South Bay.

Dixie Ashphalt Company of West Palm Beach entered the apparent low $904,000 bid on the project. The contract for the 5.9 section of road calls for light grading, resurfacing the north-bound lane with a type S-1 asphalt concrete and a concrete friction course.

Constructing concrete box culvers, a floating silt barrier and installing reflective pavement markers and roadway signs are also included in the work contract.

Work on the roadway should begin with 30 days, and the project should be completed within 250 days, a DOT spokesman said.
One other bid, $923,355, was submitted by Rubin Construction Company of West Palm Beach.
